Hi John,

My name [REDACTED] I am from Bucharest, Romania and I have seen your recent post: <https://twitter.com/JohnEDeaton1/status/1366081083129749507>

I have owned XRP on Dec 22 2020. I have bought throughout the bear market and most of it during the March crash. I have invested all my savings from 2020, but fortunately not something that would change my life if I would have lost it all.

When I bought XRP I wasn't under the impression I was buying stock or "Ripple shares", not by any means. I was actually looking forward to the IPO to see if I can buy proper shares when it was listed. I actually looked into buying before the IPO, but I am not an accredited investor.

In any case, the unexpected SEC lawsuit bullied me out of my positions, mostly due to the fact xrp was delisted from US exchanges and because of the negative news that was attacking my asset in particular. If all the market would have gone down, I wouldn't have cared at all and I wouldn't have sold. I had to reorganize and accept my loss of opportunity, ruining my Christmas vacation and resulting in a lot of sleepless nights and stress. I managed to reorganize and have done well since then. I actually reinvested in xrp recently, because I believe in this asset. Not sure if I am crazy or anything else, but here I am.

What surprised me the most was that from my perspective SEC failed at its job to protect investors. Let's say that their allegations were true, they have not done anything for more than half a decade. Not to say the circumstances of how and when the lawsuit was filed are very dubious from my perspective.

I appreciate all your are doing for the community and if it helps, I can join the lawsuit. What would be my responsibilities if I would join? How can I help?

Thank you,

To whom it may concern,

My name [REDACTED] I am a crypto researcher and influencer on social media. As of October 2020, I am now paid in XRP, based on an agreement with my business partners.

Many companies around the world are giving their employees salary options with digital currency.

I have a traditional IRA in XRP only (converted my retirement account / 401K of 30 years last July 2020.)

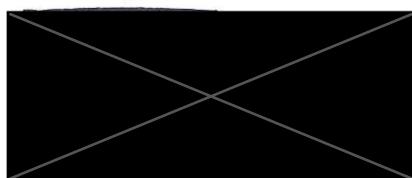

I use XRP to purchase things as a substitute for fiat and I use it to buy groceries, fuel, clothing and outlets that accept MasterCard.

I also purchase things online with XRP (Amazon) and leave tips in YouTube Chats with XRP.

On Christmas 2020, I sent my sister XRP as a gift.

XRP is NOT a security.

I have some photos of how I use my Xrp on my Uphold card. The photos go back to my first use August 07 2020 , covers Dec 12 2020 and ends with March 15 2021. they show that I use my Xrp via my Uphold frequently. I When the SEC filed the law suit I lost at least 50-60 percent of my funds. I did not sell off my Xrp and still hold today. I use this to buy groceries, pay bills and to do everyday purchases. I usually put about 75 percent of my income into Xrp and use it through my Uphold acct. The SEC caused exchanges to panic and de-list or suspend trading with Xrp. This cause my ability to function financially to falter and fail. I worked with Uphold and Bitrue because they continued to offer Xrp but Uphold placed Limits on what I could acquire. All of this prevented me from operating and transacting financially as I did prior to the SEC's filing.

I would like to join you in this fight to right the wrong brought down on me and others by the SEC

Whats the best way to send these photos to you?

Hi,

I would like to be included in the law suite.

Due to fear caused by the sec I lost approximately $21k (I can get you the exact number). I went from having 105k xrp to 63k xrp. This was because uphold fees and trading fees are outrageous. I would say I lost atleast 20k xrp in just trading. Granted this is my choice but sec left me with no other choice and caused unnecessary fear. Xrp cannot be a security because Ripple the company has so many partners and clients and that had no impact on xrp price. I was invested into xrp because it provides cheap cross border payments. This is huge to me because I have family India I send money to every month.

I am a 71 year old retired dentist in a small Kansas town. I own 4800 XRP in a nano x hard wallet. I saw your interview with Angie this week. I wanted to thank you from the bottom of my heart for fighting for me. I was unaware and concerned until I saw the YouTube video.

After retiring in 2012, I went to Ethiopia for 3 years teaching nurses in the north to remove teeth as there were few if any dentists there and suffering was a problem, The friends I have made there are in trouble today as civil war between the north and south is going on. MSM does not carry this much. I am in XRP so I could get money to them without going thru international banks. I do not give much but that is a big deal to them. XRP is a hope for me to help them more than is possible thru NGO's and the reason should be obvious as corruption is the rule there.

That is why I thank you from my heart with tears. I am OK financially if I lose all I put into XRP but getting life saving money to my dear friends there is difficult and goes thru many hands and may or may not reach them. Blessings, Randy Grill You can use my name and story if needed. It is true and verifiable as I blogged while there.

I owned significant amounts of xrp at the time the lawsuit was announced. I own less now BECAUSE of the harm the lawsuit has brought but I do still own some. I have also been negatively affected by not being able to exchange among exchanges with xrp pairings as xrp was the cheapest, fastest, easiest way to move coins within and among many exchanges. Both the collapse in price and the delisting of xrp from exchanges caused by this lawsuit, as opposed to a fair warning, have cost me considerably.

My name is [REDACTED]

I am a US citizen living abroad

I would like to be included in the class action lawsuit

Thank you for your hard and righteous work

Hi there,

Please include me in the xrp holders lawsuit.

I had 20k xrp and lost half its value when SEC brought out their ludicrous lawsuit against Ripple.

I have no interest or shares in Ripple. I'm only concerned about my XRP investment.

Kind regards,

I own 110,000 xrp. I owned approximately 60,000 on Dec 22.

I am Canadian. I also own a commercial lending business, my hopes was to be the first Canadian commercial lender that used xrp to lend to my commercial clients. (justcapital.ca)

I would like to be added to the class action if there is to be one.

Thank you.

Hi Nina,

Hope you are well.

John recently asked on Twitter for use cases for XRP. My telecommunications business uses XRP as a method for purchasing equipment from the online store.

<https://www.northernvoip.co.uk/voip-store/>

Customers can select XRP as their currency choice when checking out. The XRP gets sent to my XRP account held on a Ledger Nano X for safe keeping.

The backend of my website uses the Woocommerce XRP plugin. See <https://os.wordpress.org/plugins/woo-xrp/> for details.

Here is an image showing the XRP option available on my website checkout.

Hello,

My name is [REDACTED] I'm a single mother. My son is Autistic. For years I have struggled with the question of "when I die, what happens to my boy? What can I leave him to where I know I gave him his best chance?" One day I decided to invest in crypto. I did my research and discovered XRP's potential. XLM as well. I figured this would be a perfect investment. I invested what little money I could into these two coins and a little bit in REN too. I have kept a poker face throughout much of the bear market activity because I knew what I was invested in. I got super excited when I saw XRP rise to 90 cents. Then I woke up one morning and the SEC was dragging Ripple to court and their reason? I too stupid to realize I'm invested in securities for Ripple? That's what they are telling us in a round about way. Which is funny because I could have sworn I was invested in crypto. LOL My frustrations rose as my XRP investment took a nose dive along with my XLM. I don't believe for one second the SEC did this to "protect me." They are in an arm wrestling match with Ripple and people like me are collateral damage. Those of us who invested in XRP. I invested for my son's future. I highly doubt they care about his potential investments, either. So my XRP is currently locked up on Coinbase. In their statement, they say that in light of the SEC's lawsuit, they decided to halt activity for XRP. I'm sure that's for my own good as well. HA! I don't have very nice things to say about any of this but I do know investors like me aren't feeling very protected right now.

From: SEC

To: All-Deaton

Attorney Deaton,

I have reached out to Attorney Hogan that host the Legal Briefs series on YouTube and he mentioned that we should get in contact with you. Currently, I have Jeremy's consent to add his content to our website www.savingxrp.com and we would like to link and or embed content from your site to help the XRP community.

One of the questions we asked Jeremy and he thought I should ask you as well was the concept of having a place where live use cases could be submitted showing the active use for our digital currency.

On the home page, we have a statement for people to Contribute to the Cause....

"By sending 5 XRP to the Wallet Address located in this section, It will help us compile a long list of current wallet addresses who utilize the XRP digital asset as a currency and to provide validity for the US Securities Exchange & Commission to recognize that the individual investor/consumer sees the currency utilization for purposes such as tipping, purchasing merchandise/food, as a store of value, or a long term savings asset like physical gold bullion.

By submitting the 5 XRP, you are also letting the judge know that, "We The People" are tired of the years of inept dereliction of duty caused by the S.E.C. which has directly harmed us the individual consumer of this digital currency."

Would you be willing to consent for use of materials on the Crypto-Law.us site including linking to any petition forms on your site?

Also, would this concept of giving a place where people can "put their money where their mouth is" to send 5 XRP tokens to without claim or promise of anything in return except for the addition of their transaction amount being added to the list for the case against the SEC?

Thank you for your time and considerations

Sincerely,
